Wild Fur Reaches New Highs!

Fisher, Can-Am Sable & Raccoons Highlight the Wild Fur Sale

NAFA's 2013 winter Wild Fur auction opened with a record number of buyers in the auction room actively bidding for one of the largest and best collections of wild fur in recent memory.

The sale began with a terrific offering of North American Wild Mink which sold under strong competition at as much as 25% over expectations to new high levels.

Musquash sold at very high prices, totally dominated by China, advancing 10 % over last year's already high February levels.

Fisher was one of the highlights of the previous day's sale as it sold at prices that haven't been seen in recent times, advancing more than 40% over expected levels. Chinese manufacturers and retailers played a major role in establishing these new prices.

Can-Am Sables were also a highly sought after article by Chinese buyers who aggressively competed with the established markets for this item and pushed it to record price levels.

Day One of the Wild Fur sale concluded with an offering of nearly 440,000 raccoons which sold under strong competition from China, Russia and Greece at prices, once again, not seen in recent memory.

Ranched Silver Fox sold well at advancing price levels, with some resistance for the best quality and biggest sizes.
